

Children love to have a role so why not create your own Mini Pobble Champions? It could make your life easier too!

By appointing clearly-directed Mini Pobble Champions, they will keep the profile of Pobble high in your school, enabling you to keep on top of everything else. Many schools will often choose and train specifically targeted groups for the role (e.g. Pupil Premium, more able writers, reluctant writers, digital leaders etc).

We recommend all/most of the following...

- Encourage the Mini Pobble Champion to wear their Pobble lanyard around school and answer any questions about Pobble to visitors and/or other children who would like to know how to log in and use the Pobble platform.
- Allocate a weekly time slot for them to sign in, find and comment on the latest pieces of published work from pupils in your school.
- Offer the support of the Mini Pobble Champions to other teachers who are training their children to sign in for the first time.
- Ask for support when handing out certificates, stickers and/or lanyards in the celebration assembly to the weekly published authors and/or commenters.
- Retrieve the weekly number of views, comments and published authors and update the posters in each classroom and main school display or share in the celebration assembly.
